SAD SUNDAY ACCIDENT.

Three Young Ladies and One Gentleman Drowned.

DISASTER ON PEWAUKEE LAKE.

The Victims Were All Residents of Milwaukee and Children of Prominent Merchants of the City—A Father Witnesses the Drowning of Two of His Children—Ineffectual Attempt at Rescue—Recovery of the Bodies.

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 10.—Through the capsizing of a sail boat on Pewaukee lake Sunday afternoon three young ladies and one young gentleman, the latter a brother of one of the young ladies, were drowned. Two other young ladies and one gentleman were rescued. The drowned were Emma Barth, aged 18 years, Albert Barth, aged 20 years, Martha Kindling, aged 19 years, Belle Siegler, aged 17 years. The rescued were Laura Barth, Berth Kindling and Thomas W. Wright. All of the young people were residents of Milwaukee, the brother and sister who were drowned being the children of Peter Barth, a wholesale liquor dealer, whose home is at 320 Madison street. Miss Kindling was the daughter of Louis Kindling of 214 Hanover street, one of the largest cigar manufacturers in the city. Miss Siegler was the daughter of ex-School Commissioner Leopold Siegler of 920 Muskego avenue.

A Sail Suggested.

Pewaukee lake, the scene of the accident, is the largest of the famous chain of lakes of Waukesha county, and is about twenty miles west of Milwaukee. Its shores are dotted with the summer homes of many Milwaukeeans, among them Mr. Barth, whose cottage is on Rocky Point, one of the most beautiful spots on Pewaukee's picturesque shores. The Misses Kindling and Miss Siegler were the guests of the Misses Barth at their summer home Sunday. The day at Pewaukee was uncomfortably hot, and after dinner some one suggested a sail on the lake, which every one of the young people agreed would be delightful, and seven of them crowded into the sailboat. There were the two Misses Barth and their brother, the two Misses Kindling, Miss Siegler, and Mr. Wright. Young Barth was handling the sails.

Capsizing of the Boat.

The start was made shortly after 2 o'clock. Hardly was the boat under way when the sudden screams coming from the lake startled every one on shore. As all eyes turned toward the lake nothing was to be seen of the little sailboat but her mast sticking out of the water within 300 feet of the shore, while floundering about in the water could only be seen two of the young ladies. This was the heartrending scene which met the eyes of Mr. Barth and the other members of his family ashore while they thought of the three members of their own family and the others who were there in the lake. It was but a moment after the first screams were heard before half a dozen rowboats from the shores of neighboring cottages were being pulled with all physical strength of their occupants to the rescue. The first boat to reach the scene of the accident was manned by August Luenzmann and Will Gerlach, who hastily dragged into their boat the two ladies who were still afloat, Miss Laura Barth and Miss Bertha Kindling.

Rescue of Thomas Wright.

As the second boat manned by Edward Rohan, a Milwaukee jeweler, reached the scene, Thomas Wright came to the surface and he was quickly rescued by Mr. Rohan. As the other boats came up the surface of the lake was anxiously scanned for others to come up, but not one of the four others floated after the boat sank with them. As they were supposed to have been held down in some way by the boat a line was quickly passed around the spar and the sunken sailboat was towed into shallower water, when some expert swimmers dived down into her without finding any of the missing ones. Thomas Wright, who was among the rescued, was a good swimmer. After he looked around him when the boat capsized and saw that some of his companions were missing he dived deep into the water. The white dress of one of the young ladies on the bottom met his eyes and he tried to reach her, but the air in his lungs gave out and he was forced to come to the surface and abandon her to her fate.

Searching for the Bodies.

The search for the bodies was a long one, and, after an hour had passed without finding a trace of them, the Milwaukee police were telephoned to for grappling irons. Three policemen, with a team and grappling irons, were hurriedly dispatched to the scene of the accident, but did not reach there until after 6 o'clock. In the meantime, or after nearly a three hours' search, the four bodies were recovered. There was a most effecting scene as the bodies were landed at the Barth cottage, where were gathered the relatives of the dead as well as the companions who had so nearly shared the same fate. An undertaker left here at 8:30 o'clock Sunday night with four coffins in which the bodies will be brought here.

An Overloaded Boat.

The boat in which the accident occurred was a large yawl fitted up as a sailboat and carried a large quantity of stone. It is the general opinion that the boat was overloaded, and in jibing it suddenly filled with water, which, with the heavy weight it was carrying besides its ballast, caused it to sink. It is said that the same boat capsized Saturday evening with young Barth and his sister, the same two drowned Sunday, and that Barth rescued his sister. The news of the accident will be a sorrowful affliction to the many friends of the young people, all of whom were very well known and were particularly prominent in German society circles.

Because He Was a Jeweler.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Mr. Marques, a Russian Jew immigrant, who has considerable money with him, says he was not driven out of Russia because he was a Jew, but because he was a jeweler. His trade at court was wanted by a rival and he was first notified to leave by Jan. 0. Friends with influence kept him in the country until June 15, when he had to leave or lose all he had. He hopes to establish a good business in this country.

The Capitalist with Two Countries.

LONDON, Aug. 10.—Andrew Carnegie laid the corner-stone of the public library at Peterhead Saturday, to which he has donated £1,000. He made an interesting speech, full of devotion to his native and his adopted land. The Peterhead people gave him an ovation.

PROBABLY A LUNATIC.

A Crazy Man Who Uses a Brush Scythe as a Weapon.

HARVARD, Ills., Aug. 10.—Sheriff Udell Sunday afternoon captured a man who for weeks has been prowling in the woods near Woodstock and threatening to attack any one who came near him. Sunday the fellow rushed upon a young man and woman who were out riding. He grabbed the horse's rein, and holding in one hand a brush scythe threatened to kill the occupants of the buggy. The driver, by a vigorous use of the whip, succeeded in getting away, but in doing so the blow that the fellow made with the scythe took a spoke out of the buggy. He had aimed at the young woman.

Would Not Tell His Name.

The sheriff was apprised of the encounter, and with six men went to the place. He found the offender a few rods from the place, but a battle ensued before he would give up. He made for the sheriff with the scythe, and a dozen shots were fired. Finally a small dose of lead was given him in the leg and he surrendered. He was taken to jail but refused to talk or give his name. It is thought he is an escaped lunatic.

MRS. DODGE WAS ANGRY.

She Does Up a Lynn, Mass., Doctor in Great Shape.

LYNN, Aug 10.—One of the most sensational affairs Lynn has known for years took place when Mrs. Lizzie F. Dodge, secretary of the Essex County Helping Hand society, publicly beat Dr. S. B. Andrews of the city in the printing office of Mr. Wells. Stories derogatory to Mrs. Dodge have been in circulation for some time, and she traced them, she alleges, to Dr. Andrews. Friday she wrote him making an appointment to meet him at 1 p. m. Saturday.

Kicked the Doctor Out.

Sunday morning she saw Andrews enter the printing office and followed him. Andrews called Mrs. Dodge a "shovel for the police." Suddenly Mrs. Dodge struck Andrews, and followed it up by banging his head against the brick wall. Dr. Andrews attempted to escape, but the angry secretary of the Helping Hand society gave chase and kicked him through the printing office, following him to the street. Andrews at once went home, while Mrs. Dodge called on City Marshal Wells and surrendered herself.

Fire Balls Fall at Chicago.

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—Sunday was the hottest day of the season in this city. A storm came up, however, about 4 p. m., which cooled the atmosphere considerably, and during its progress a strange phenomenon occurred. About 6 o'clock a bolt of lightning tore through the black clouds and struck with a deafening crash at the corner of Hermitage avenue and Polk street. Two big balls of fire, each as large as a half bushel measure, fell in the middle of the street and for a moment blinded the fifteen or twenty persons who were standing in the vicinity. Several men were hurled to the ground and a little girl was slightly burned.

Coal Mine Gas and the Naked Lamp.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Aug. 10.—A large volume of gas liberated by a blast fired in the second lift tunnel at the colliery on the outskirts of the city Saturday became ignited from the naked lamps of the men when they entered the place, causing an explosion by which thirteen men were burned, one of them, John Corbors, fatally. Charles Sowers, Scott Brubaker and David Davis were seriously burned, and the remaining eight slightly. The damage to the mine was slight as the fire was quickly extinguished.

The Monument Not Attached.

BENNINGTON, Vt., Aug 10.—The dispatches recently sent out from Hartford, Conn., stating that the Bennington battle monument had been attached to secure the Security company of Hartford in the sum of $5,000 are denied here. The association has never borrowed money and knows of no valid claims against it. The transfer of the monument to the state of Vermont will occur on Aug. 19, and a great concourse of people is expected to participate in the ceremonies.

Killed by a Vicious Horse.

BROOKLYN, Aug. 10.—John Uniack, aged 40, a teamster employed by the People's Gas Light company, and his 4-year-old son Thomas, were trampled to death by a vicious horse in the company's stables yesterday. Uniack had gone with his little boy to feed the horse, which, for some reason unknown, attacked him and the boy, and before assistance could arrive both had been thrown and their heads crushed to a jelly.

Shot and Killed His Father.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 10.—George F. Nieman, a shoemaker at 186 Everett street, was shot and instantly killed Sunday by his son Charles F. Nieman, aged 20 years, at their home. 18 German street. The shooting resulted from a family quarrel which had been in progress for several years. Nieman had made a motion to strike the young man's mother, when the latter fired the fatal shot.

Arrested for Criminal Carelessness.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Aug. 10.—The latest development following Thursday's terrible catastrophe on the West Shore railroad at Montezuma is the arrest of Conductor Tobin and Flagman Conley on a charge of criminal negligence. The two men were taken into custody on the coroner's warrant Saturday night and are now under lock and key at the police station.

Too Many Friends for His Good.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Rev. Dr. Oaks of Manchester, N. H., preached at the Twenty-third Baptist church Sunday on "Shall We Move the Negro." He was decidedly opposed to the movement for the removal of the negro, saying that he is a good citizen and would be all right if he was only left alone by his friends, who were decidedly too numerous.

Destructive Fires in California.

SONOMA, Cal., Aug. 10.—At Elverano Saturday eight houses with barns and many tons of hay were burned. The fire is burning over Engler & Sear's ranches, sweeping away everything in its path. It has crossed Sonoma creek and is coming towards this place. A high wind is blowing and every man in town has gone to help subdue the flames.

Would Result Disastrously.

BERLIN, Aug 10.—Prince Bismarck has informed Herr Lutz, a member of the reichstag, that, in his opinion, to reduce the corn duty would be a disaster to the country.

LARRUPED BY JONES.

The Southern Revivalist Goes for Northern Sinners.

SOME REMARKS OF THE EVANGELIST

He Tells People That If They Do Not Believe as He Believes They Will Be Damned and If So It Will Not Bother Him Very Much—Bob Ingersoll Hauled Over the Coals—Jones and His Dog.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Sam Jones, the revivalist, kept an audience of 2,000 people alternately laughing and applauding in the big pavilion at Prohibition park, Staten island. He had come all the way from Mississippi to do it, and he intended to give the audience more than its money's worth, for the admission fee was only 10 cents. Among other things he said:

"The fashionable minister is without sympathy. He says to the members of his congregation: 'If you believe as I believe, you will be saved; if you don't you will be damned, and I don't care much which.' There is many a man that takes a disordered liver for a pure head. It makes me sick to hear a man say he's an infidel. I'd rather be the lowest down chain-gang nigger or white man in a penitentiary for stealing than be an open, avowed infidel. I'd rather be the lowest Wall street thief than an infidel.

Lower Than a Dog.

Old Bob Ingersoll can make his $500 to $800 a night out of it, but I never did understand one of these little fools that will chase around after him and pay $1 to hear him speak and board themselves. I'm as full of faults as any man, but when I get home my dog Hero greets me by wagging his tail and licking my hands. He is glad to see me back, and he loves me. Why? Because I treat him kindly. Think how good God has been to you, and yet you do not love him in turn. Now, listen to me, you great big sinners back there. You are lower than a dog. Get out from under the dogs and be a man. I crawled out from under the dogs nineteen years ago and I said 'Good-by dogs.' I did a good thing for myself. There is only one way to get whisky out of the country and that is to vote it out.

Will Not Vote Their Ticket.

"There are thousands of 365-day Prohibitionists in New York, but on the 365th day, which is election day, they don't show up. I'm a prohibitionist every day, and if there is only one Prohibition vote cast in 1892 you can say 'Sam Jones is voting.' And if I'm alive fifty years from now, and there is only one Prohibition vote cast, you can say: 'That's Jones voting still.'"

Sam Jones sat on one of the upper piazzas of the Prohibition Park hotel after his sermon and swung his black, broad brim felt hat and talked.

"What is the Alliance doing doing in the south?" asked one of the group around him.

"My sympathies are with the Alliance," said Jones, "but it is not going to work in the right way. At present it is simply a protest against the existing state of affairs, just as the labor unions are protesting."

Hanlon and O'Connor Were Victors.

HAMILTON, Ont., Aug. 10.—Fully 15,000 people witnessed the double scull race here Saturday for the world's championship between Ed Hanlon and William O'Connor, in one boat and Jake Gaudaur and William McKay in the other. The 1½ miles stake was reached by Hanlon and O'Connor in 8 min. and 3 sec. On the home stretch the leaders did not exert themselves, and when within a quarter of a mile of the finish they stopped rowing and Hanlon dipped his hand in the bay. They finally won a comparatively easy victory by six lengths in 18:23. Gaudaur and McKay's time was not taken.

Couldn't Bribe the Englishman.

LONDON, Aug. 10.—Startling information is in possession of the Chilian legation in reference to a conspiracy to destroy the two Chilian ironclads. Presidente Pinto and Errazuriz. It appears that the sum of £3,000 was offered to an English maritime officer in the service of the Chilian government if he would undertake to slow up the Errazuris. He refused the offer with indignation. The Errazuris is already safe at sea, and it is understood that the Pinto will soon be in a position to follow, and that their arrival in Chili will put an end to the revolution.

Paid Dearly for His Amusement.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Frederick Munz, of Brooklyn, wanted to see the games of the Ancient Order of Hibernians at Ridgewood park, and having no money climbed to the top of a brick stack sixty feet high. After looking at the games awhile he grew dizzy and fell down the interior of the chimney. He now lies in the hospital with a broken leg, a broken rib, a terribly lacerated scalp, and bruises all over his body. He will recover, however.

A Long Drought Broken.

CHEBOYGAN, Mich., Aug. 10.—The long drought was partially broken Saturday afternoon. Copious showers fell, but not sufficient to penetrate any depth in the ground. The forest fires are smouldering and a dense smoke is hanging over the city. The weather threatened more rain at night.

British Foreign Trade.

LONDON, Aug. 10.—The board of trade has issued returns showing that during the month of July the imports decreased £200,000 and that the exports decreased £2,380,000, as compared with those for the corresponding month of last year.

ARE AFTER THAT SUGAR BOUNTY.

Producers Propose to Make Over $600,000 Pounds.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—Complete returns have been received at the office of the commissioner of internal revenue of applications of persons who, under the provisions of the sugar bounty act, intend to make sugar. The commissioner has been notified that 3,729 sugar manufacturers intend to make maple sugar, and they estimate their production at 8,000,000 pounds: cane sugar manufacturers to the number of 732 will make sugar from cane, and they estimate the production at 595,623,700 pounds; eight manufacturers will make sugar from beets, and the production of their mills they estimate at 29,210,000 pounds. while six persons will make sugar from sorghum, the production of which they estimate at 3,500,000 pounds, or a total of 606,333,700 pounds of sugar from all sources.

Think the Figures Too High.

The McKinley act, in case the sugar produced contains 90 per cent. of pure sugar, provides for a bounty of 2 cents per pound to be paid by the government. The estimated quantity of sugar—606,333,700 pounds—as furnished by the manufacturers to the internal revenue bureau as what they intend to produce, is considered by officials in the office of the internal revenue bureau, too high by fully 20 per cent., and the sugar product is not expected by them to reach 550,000,000 pounds at the most. If this latter amount is the product the bounty will aggregate $11,000,000.

CHICAGO HOLDS THE LEAD.

A Lost Game with Boston Leaves the Old Man Still Ahead.

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—The "colts" were unlucky at Philadelphia, getting beat three times straight. But they managed to pull off two out of three games at Boston, and would have got the third if it had not been for some sharp practice by the Boston first baseman, who fell on Cooney after having muffed a ball, and hurt him so that he had to be retired. Luby, who was sent to left field in Cooney's place, is not a phenomenon in that position, and about the first thing muffed a fly. The club plays to-day at New York, and upon this series depends largely the question whether it shall come home at the top of the class. The standing of the clubs is given below:

NOT SO VERY REMARKABLE.

Peffer's Plan of Making Things Go Easy Indorsed in Kansas.

TOPEKA, Kan., Aug. 10.—The Elk county Farmers' Alliance has adopted a remarkable set of resolutions because of the refusal of banks to loan any more money on Kansas land. After numerous whereases the resolutions demand of the president of the United States that he immediately assemble the congress for the purpose of passing a law whereby the United States can issue legal tender treasury notes to the amount needed and loan to the people of Kansas at a low rate of interest, with the privilege of paying small annual installments on the principal until the whole is paid; and that the government shall be secured by the Kansas land mentioned.

A Demand for Equal Taxation.

This it is claimed will relieve the people from the grasp of the money power and give them a chance to save their homes. The resolutions also ask that congress pass a law making everything that circulates as money and all interest-bearing bonds taxable so that the man of wealth may bear the burden of taxation equally with the farmer.

Looking for Diamonds Under Water.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Aug. 10.—Diamonds worth $2,000 were taken from the bottom of New London harbor one day last week, and the diver in his mailed suit who recovered them walks beneath the river daily for another lot that are also worth $2,000. The diamonds did not grow down there, but are the property of Mrs. Boerum, of New York. They were on board Mr. Boerum's naphtha launch, the biggest in the world, that was burned at the eastern point (Groton) wharf one night recently. Mrs. Boerum wants the rest of those diamonds, and she paid the diver who walked under the river big wages to hunt for them.

Settled Phœbe Couzins' Case.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—Attorney General Miller has rendered a decision directing the secretary of the treasury to pay Mrs. Susan Gale Cook her salary as secretary pro tem of the board of lady managers of the World's Columbian exposition since the date when Miss Phœbe Couzins was deposed from the position of secretary. This settles a case that has attracted considerable attention in which Miss Couzins claimed to be the proper secretary regardless of what she called the alleged deposition.

Latest as to Blaine's Health.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—The latest in regard to Blaine's health is that, in obedience to a cable message, Dr. Baldwin, of Florence, Italy, who attended the distinguished statesman when he was abroad, has arrived in New York and will go to Bar Harbor. The family of Mr. Blaine at Bar Harbor all deny that anybody has summoned Dr. Baldwin, or that the secretary needs a physician from anywhere.

A "Bike" That Runs on Water.

TUSCOLA, Ills., Aug. 10.—About 1,000 people witnessed the first trial of Professor Claude Baum's aquacycle Saturday at Montezuma health resort on the Wabash river. It was a novel exhibition and many are convinced that a wheel has been found that will run on water with almost as much speed as bicycles on land.

Editor Jones Will Probably Die.

LEWISTON, Me., Aug. 10.—The condition of George Jones, editor of The New York Times, remains unchanged. His physicians seem to have lost confidence in his recovery.

A ROMANATIC STORY.

Details of the Rescue of Girls from Indians.

THE SEQUEL TO A RUNAWAY MATCH.

Disowned by Their Parents the Young Couple Go West—Reckless Whites Bring on an Indian Raid, and the Wife Dies, the Husband Is Left to Starve, While the Redskins Carry Off Two Little Girls Their Recovery by the Father After Twelve Years.

BOSTON, Aug. 10.—Caleb Page arrived in Boston last Thursday from Dakota with his two daughters, having recovered them from the Chinte band of Indians, in whose custody they have been for the past twelve years. "In 1870," said Mr. Page, "I resided on a farm on the old Bay road, not far distant from the Mansfield, Mass., line. At a social party in Norton I became acquainted with Miss Clara Barker, who was visiting in the town. It was a case of love at first sight. During her stay in the village I made frequent calls upon her, and upon her return to Roxbury a daily correspondence was carried on. My parents noticed that all was not right with me. I had lost all interest in the farm work. I told them of my love for Clara and that we were to be married. My father expressed himself in decided terms against the union.

Married an Got Cold Shoulder.

"Mr. Barker was also bitterly opposed to the match. Under a pretense of visiting friends Miss Barker left her home, and, meeting me at Taunton, we journeyed to Pawtucket, R. I., where we were married. The following day I took my wife to the homestead of my parents. I was met at the door by my father, who refused me entrance. We came to Boston and went out to the home of the Barkers. Mrs. Barker received us in a friendly manner, but Mr. Barker, upon his return home and being informed of his daughter's union, gave vent to his passion, and ordered her out of the house. I came to Boston, rented a room and obtained employment at Littlefield's machine repairing shop on Sudbury street. There I remained for a year.

Concludes to Go West and Grow Up.

"A party of young people whose acquaintance I had formed were about to start for the west, and I joined them. My first landing place was St. Joseph, Mo., where I remained six months, finding plenty of work and good remuneration. A party here were about to start a train and squat upon land in the territory, and I joined them. A baggage train was formed and we started for homes and land of our own. After a travel of nearly three weeks we halted, and our party was divided into sections and took possession.

Makes a Home and Prospers.

"Rude homes were built a distance of about a quarter of a mile apart. I was soon the owner of a fine herd. The land was productive, the climate genial. Here we lived in peace and comfort, and two plump, healthy baby girls were added to our family, which served to make our rude home a paradise. We had been in this section about six years, and were on friendly terms with a tribe of Indians who lived about twenty miles away and who would occasionally pay us visits, my wife exchanging some of the products of our land for ornamental work. They seemed to think much of her and would pet our darlings, taking them in their arms and running fast with them upon their backs, but quickly returning.

Work of White Bloodthirstiness.

"A caravan, in passing through our settlement, saw some of the Indians and fired upon them. They fled, and the next day returned in their war paint. My little home was burned to the ground, myself and family taken captives and carried some fifty miles away. There I was bound to a tree. My wife was taken with hysteria and died before my eyes. My children were carried away, and I was left to perish. Here I remained for nearly two days, when some cowboys who were returning from a cattle drive saw me, cut the rawhide which bound me, and I went with them. A few days' travel brought us to a mining camp, where there were traces of civilization. Here I joined a prospecting band. We were fortunate at every turn.

Made a Fortune at Mining.

"Many mines were opened under our supervision, and representatives of capitalists were at our heels without stint for the workings. Miners were drawn from the surrounding sections, large wages being offered them. Our party would sell for part cash, retaining a goodly number of shares in the companies. In a few years I had amassed a fortune on paper, and upon making it known that I was to leave this section for the east I was besieged by parties desirous of purchasing my stock, the greater part of which I sold, taking in exchange drafts on banking houses both in San Francisco and New York."

Hears News of His Children.

Mr. Page arrived in Boston in April of the present year. He had exhausted every effort out west in the attempt to learn what had become of his children, but on making inquiries concerning the fate of the Pages, the following letter was shown him dated Near Fort Garland, Indian Reservation. Aug. 6, 1888: "I have just returned from the Indian settlement of the Urases. While there I saw two beautiful white girls. They informed me in broken English that their father and mother had been put to death by the Utes, and their grandparents bore your name and lived in Roxbury Mass. CHARLES PINCKENEY."

A Happy Reunion at Last.

This letter was shown to Mr. Page, and he was frantic with joy. A friend accompanied him to the office of a provincial lawyer, who wrote a letter to an attorney at Washington relating the circumstances of the case and desiring him to consult the commissioner relative to the case. Mr. Page soon received the necessary papers and left for Fort Brown from where, with guides and interpreter, he visited the reservation near Fort Garland and regained possession of his children. The father and daughters arrived in Boston Thursday and proceeded at once to the house of the Barkers.

Will Not Send Exhibits to Chicago.

LONDON, Aug. 10.—The chambers of commerce of Giessen and Gries and a majority of the wool manufacturers belonging to the German Central union have decided not to send exhibits to the Chicago fair, but the merchants and the members of the oldest committee of the Mannheim chamber of commerce have resolved to exhibit.

EVERY DAY EXCEPT MONDAY.

TUESDAY, AUGUST 11, 1891.

A RANK TRICK.

At the reception that was tendered to Mr. Cleveland by his neighbors, of Sandwich, some days ago, one of the speakers used the following language:

"I want to say that when an ex-president of the United States makes his home in a community with which I happen to be for the time identified, and I am asked to take part in a reception in his honor, I should regard myself as lacking in patriotism. I should regard myself as a very bigoted sort of a partisan, if I should refuse to participate simply because we did not entertain the same political views."

The man who used those words was the republican speaker of the last house of representatives of Massachusetts He was anxious to be made chairman of the plat form committee in his party's state convention. The story is told openly that he lost this chairmanship because of the words quoted above

Now is it possible that republicanism can be so narrow and bigoted, even in Massachusetts? That state is popularly supposed to be the fountain of our culture, and you can be sure that the republican party lays claim to the best culture in the state. Can it be that those of our people who claim to be the most advanced will not allow a kind word of greeting to be said to a political opponent? And remember that Cleveland was not on politics bent when that pleasant little speech was given for his pleasure He was only attempting to be neighborly, to get along pleasantly with the people he would be compelled to meet daily for some weeks. And the greeting was only that of a neighbor who believes that it is better to make the world blossom with smiles than to go to seed in frowns

We hope this act did not cost the generous republican the chairmanship be coveted. It would be better to have him lose it in any other way. No one wants to think that there is any part of our country where a word of kind greeting is an offense If that is the shape we are in in our boasted Massachusetts, some of the heathens had better come over from Africa and open a night school in Boston.

But we prefer to think that, while it may be true that the Massachusetts republicans disciplined a man for being pleasant to a democrat, there is in the occurrence full assurance that the republican party does not hold any of the progressive elements of that state. Progress and such bigotry can not be found side by side in the same organization.

What would you think if you should hear that some Southerner was punished because he made himself agreeable to President Harrison during the late swing around the circle? Then we would hear a great deal about the infernal and irreconcilable bigotry of the South. And the democratic organization there would have to bear the brunt of all the criticism that might be found in Northern republican papers.

Does anybody know that we should make an exception in favor of Massachusetts? There is no objection against individual members of the republican party in that state. The part that many of them took in the reception at Sandwich is highly creditable. They showed that they were able to distinguish between a campaign and common courtesy, that they were aware that politics is not the philosophy of our existence. Of course they were expected to show as much, but it is a pleasure to note that expectations were not disappointed.

But the republican organization in Massachusetts seems to have got into poor hands. If this matter is a fair sample of its work, can there be any wonder that the democratic party is called on to direct affairs in that state? The day must come, and soon, when bigotry will not be a paying pastime even in Massachusetts.

THE DIGNITY OF IT.

The state of Tennessee has managed to get into some trouble with a lot of miners who live there. Leasing of convict labor for mining purposes has long been the practice in that state. The regular miners saw in this a destruction of their chance to make a fair living They swooped down upon a mining camp and made things pretty lively for awhile. The miners were armed with nearly all kinds of firearms and clubs. There were several thousand of them. For awhile they defied all state authorities and compelled the convict camp to move on.

In this situation the governor of the state began to treat with the miners. An agreement was soon reached by which the governor was to call a special session of the legislature for the purpose of having the convict lease system abolished. Peace was at once restored, and the extra session will soon meet to repeal the obnoxious law.

You perhaps have noticed severe criticism of the governor's course in this matter. Several papers take the position that the governor should not have treated with those miners while they were in revolt against the established order of things. There is the common assertion that the dignity of the state of Tennessee was lowered. The notion that the dignity of a government can be lowered by trying to come to a peaceable understanding with a body of working people who live under it was thought to be played out. But it seems that we yet have a great many people who would preserve the state's dignity by shooting the miners in arms and then treating with those who never made any objections It is the short and easy way out of the trouble, and there is felt to be no pressing necessity for the miner's work while there is a convict to take his place.

It seems to THE REVIEW that the governor of Tennessee deserves all credit and commendation for having got through this serious trouble without shedding blood. It would have been a very easy thing to call out the militia and hastily order them to fire. A few score miners would have lost their lives, and maybe a half-dozen soldiers. And when all that was done, does anyone think the state of Tennessee would have had dignity to sell? Who would care to buy some of it?

The governor of Tennessee started in to have peace and save human life. He has done both. If he has lost a little dignity during the proceedings he at least made a mighty good trade. The idea that a state cannot treat with its citizens while they are armed is a peculiar one. In a case of this kind the state has the strength there is no one who questions that. It has nothing at stake that it is in danger of losing. It is the giant in the affair; recognized as such, and therefore it can proceed without any thought about the way the man in its power is armed.

As big a concern as a state does not have to worry itself about dignity when a few of its subjects lose their wits Dignity is an element that enters when the parties have grave reason to be afraid of each other And the dignity that comes at such a time is not a dangerous or bloodthirsty affair, it listens to reason and usually winds up by doing the sensible thing

It is quite an easy thing to prate about offended dignity when you have someone in your power. The article that is usually shown at such a time is a cheap quality of tyranny. Tennessee could have grown indignant, in the person of its governor, and taught a lesson imported from Pennsylvania. And yet the whole trouble was not worth one drop of blood It has been settled, and each miner's family still has its father to assist in gathering bread This is of more importance than dignity, especially an overgrown bullying dignity that would put a chip on its shoulder and then chase around among children to look for a victim

The dignified man is all merciful and considerate while he has the power A state will lose no dignity if it proceeds in the same way with its citizens, whose lot is a hard one at best.

ATTORNEY GENERAL HUNT is reported as holding that the weekly pay law is not binding. Some of the big corporations in the state came to the same conclusion before this opinion of the attorney general was whispered abroad And it will be remembered that our city attorney was the first to set this ball of unfriendly thought a rolling Now if all the attorneys in the state whose business it is to prosecute violations of the law are going to concur in the opinion that it is of no force, we will never have a fair trial of the matter. There are some who would like to get the supreme court's opinion on this question. And there is danger that this wonderful concurrence of opinion on the part of those whose business it is to do their best to enforce the laws may prejudice the supreme court.

The prosecuting attorney of this county, Isaac R Mills, has not yet undertaken to enlighten the supreme court on this question. We trust that Mr. Mills will keep himself in position to honestly and forcibly prosecute a case under the law, should one come up. Let the supreme court hustle for its own opinions.

THERE is a notion that Senator Peffer may be suppressed in the senate It is now said that he is the best advertised man in the country and that he has a cinch on the people's party nomination for the presidency—that is, he now has the cinch But it is thought the senate may suppress him and thus ruin his chances. This is because there is an unwritten law in the senate that a member shall not show his ability during the first year.

The idea of holding Peffer down with an unwritten law had better be sent out for repairs The laws that are written, and that were intended to make his notions unpopular, have been the making of the man. If there is an unwritten law anywhere that arrogates to itself the right to close Peffer's mouth, it had better take out an accident policy. He will go against that law some day and let his whiskers play on it until it will beg its friends to relieve its pains by putting it to death.

Oh yes, you will hear from Peffer in the senate. If that is the only thing that stands between him and a nomination, you can begin at once to get ready your campaign jokes against him.

ACCORDING to an editorial in The H D, even Harrison beat McKinley before the New York State Republican League convention. Harrison got 15 votes, McKinley, 8. And if you want to realize what a deathly still duck Harrison is, you have only to remember that Blaine got 102 votes before the same body. Blaine is only 13 times as strong as the man whom he struck in the back just as the light went out. From all of this we gather that Editor Jason is ready to pin his faith and fortunes to the sick Knight from Maine. Jason can tell which way a cyclone blows.

THE MARKETS.

CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 10—11 a. m—There was a flurry in wheat just at the opening of the board this morning. Liverpool was ½d higher, and the shorts were scared by the published reports of blight and hot weather in Dakota. The bidding of Logan & Co., who had a heavy line of shorts cover, was chiefly responsible for the bulge. Dec. closed at 90⅝c on Saturday The opening today was ragged, some houses quoting first bids at 91c while others made it 90⅝c. The difference was immaterial, however, as there were no transactions at either figure to speak of. Holders of wheat were not ready to sell and shorts were anxious. The consequence was that the price was quickly advanced by quarters with very little business passing, and inside of five minutes 93¼ was reached. By this time the urgent shorts which got into the market became more quiet and a weak feeling set in which carried the price off to 91½c. Later it reacted to 92c, broke again to 91¼c, and at 11 o'clock was quiet at 91⅝c. Receipts were 90 cars over the estimates. Corn opened ½c off, at 58c; was steady for a time, then grew strong under the influence of an advance of ½d at Liverpool and fears of damage to the growing crop from drought and hot winds, advancing to 59¼c. It broke later, however, to 58¼c on free selling, and at 11 o'clock was quiet at 58¼.

Corn will be light in a large section of the state in that direction. The weather has been too dry, and the stalks have almost dried up.

Admirers of the Beautiful.

One of the most elegant works of art it was ever the pleasure of THE REVIEWER to gaze upon, is now on exhibition in the show windows of the Piper studio. It is a crayon portrait by that well known artist Frank E. Bunn. In delicacy of execution and faithfulness in outline it is worthy of the highest praise. Manager Smith feels proud as he gazes at it to reflect that he has secured the services of so competent an artist as Mr. Bunn, who can now be found at the Piper studio. He will have charge of the crayon india ink and pastel work, and those wishing anything in this line should examine the beautiful specimens of Mr. Bunn's artistic skill.

DEATHS.

Capt. Grason's Wife Dies After Being Ill Only a Few Minutes

Sunday afternoon Capt. William Grason and wife, who live southwest of Cerro Gordo, drove to that place in a buggy and passed the afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Adam Heminger. Mrs. Grason was in her usual health and spirits. Yesterday afternoon arrangements were being made for her funeral. With hardly a moment's warning Mrs. Grason was called from life about 10 o'clock Sunday night. She retired as well as ever. About 10 Capt. Grason was awakened by his wife, who wanted to be lifted up, saying she thought she was dying. Almost before he could do that much she was dead. Heart disease took her life away.

Capt. Grason is very well knewn in Decatur, where he has many friends to sympathize with him and his family. Mrs Grason was about 53 years old. She leaves five children, Charles and Ida, who are at home; William a farmer in Oakley township, Robert, a farmer in Iowa, and Frank and Thomas, employed on the Wabash railroad. It was only a week or two ago that Capt. Grason made arrangements to build a new $3,000 residence on their farm place, southwest of Cerro Gordo, near the county line.

Muleady.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F Muleady were called upon yesterday to give up their little son, William J. Muleady, who was only 6 months and 3 days old. The child has been a remarkably healthy one. Sunday noon it seemed to be perfectly well, promising to grow up to be a joy and a comfort to his parents. That afternoon he was attacked with cholera infantum. He died at 8 30 yesterday morning at the family residence, 841 East William street The funeral will be held at 4 o'clock this afternoon at St. Patrick's church. Father Mackin will conduct the services.

Brown.

I. H. Brown, a traveling salesman for the Phoenix Nursery company, of Bloomington, died at 1.30 yesterday afternoon at the Globe hotel. He has lived at Cerro Gordo and was a brother of Eli H Brown, of Decatur He went to Saylor Springs accompanied by Eli some time ago, in hopes that his health would be benefited The hope was not realized, however, and the brothers returned to Decatur, arriving here Saturday night. Besides the brother in Decatur there is one in Ohio, and a sister at Cerro Gordo. The funeral will be held today at Cerro Gordo in the Methodist church. Rev. J. B. Martin will preach a sermon. The Cerro Gordo Odd Fellows' lodge, of which Mr. Brown was a member, will have charge of the services.

Darow

Cody S Darow, the 4 months old niece of Mr. and Mrs. Coburn died with cholera infantum at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the residence, 1105 North church street The funeral will be held today at 4 30 at the residence. The services will be in charge of Rev. M. L Wagner.

Northeast Decatur.

Mrs. William Stearns, of Woodlawn, Neb., who has been visiting her parents, Ace Kincaid and wife, for six weeks, will return to her home this week.

James Alsup was able to be up Sunday for the first time in two months Dr. Stoner removed the plaster of paris cast and replaced it with a felt bandage. Mrs. Alsup is improving and is able to hobble around the house, assisted by crutches. This family has had bad luck this summer

Mrs C A Fletcher and little daughter are visiting their mother and grandmother at Newman, Ill.

Mike Hammond, nephew of Mrs. Mike Shaniel, of Vandalia, is visiting Mr. and Mrs Shaniel

The Cattle Disease.

The state board of live stock commissioners thinks the new cattle disease is not contagious, but due entirely to some acrid which forms on, or within, some plant which it taken in with the food, for only those parts of the body which come in contact with the food, either before or after it is eaten, are affected. The board advised this treatment, which is very simple and seems to have a very beneficial effect, even severe cases recovering rapidly Linseed oil (raw) in pint doses, three times a day, until the bowels move freely, and for local application, a solution of borax, as strong as water will dissolve it, three times a day, applied to the mouth and nose with a sponge. The animals while under treatment should be kept under cover and fed sloppy food.

The Long Point Picnic.

The Long Point Christian church has an all day out door meeting every year in Dingman's grove, near Niantic. The usual gathering was held Sunday, when over 1,000 people were there. Rev. J. W. Robinson, of Illiopolis, Rev. Gilliland, pastor of the Niantic Christian church, and Rev. F. Meiggs, a missionary returned from India, made addresses. A basket dinner was eaten in the middle of the day. Quite a member went out from Decatur. Among others there were Mr. and Mrs. George Jones and daughter, J. H. Chamberlain and family, Thomas Pritchett and wife, Misses Rose and Josie Elliott, C. B. Jones, James Turner, Miss Nell Elliott and George Corne

Sunday Visitors at Camp de Verse.

Miss Marie Shellabarger, Dr. Moore, Dr. J. W. McKinnon, Lute Shellabarger, Joe Perkins, George Lytle and others spent Sunday with the campers, near Milmine.

Misses Alice Judson, Eugenia Harris, Messrs Arnold Verkade, Allen Bevans Harry Bumstead, Charles Adelott, Charles Barnes and Bob Hays, who have been in camp for a week, returned yesterday. Those who remain will break camp today or tomorrow.

The Other Side.

Carroll Finan asks THE REVIEW to say for him that the charge that he made an unprovoked assault upon A. Heiss, is false. He says that Heiss called him bad names, and refused any explanation. That then he did not take any advantage of him but only shook him and slapped him once. He says that he is ready to prove by those who saw it that he was not to blame.

Forty Cent Oats

One grain dealer near Decatur paid 40 cents for 3,000 bushels of oats last week. The market price was 30. The contract was made last March The farmer had more to sell but he only got 30 cents for them. The immense crop of oats knocked over the calculations of the grain buyer. It fooled everybody in the business.

A Residence Sold.

R. L. Bohon bought the residence at 531 West Prairie street yesterday. It belonged to G. W. Crouch, now living at St. Louis. The price paid was $3,800. The lot has a frontage of 70 feet. Mr. Bohon bought the place to sell.

Mary C. Hinsey to Catharine Branyan, an acre in Oakley township; $150.

Funeral of Engineer Clark.

Three carloads of Wabash employes went to Springfield Sunday on the special train to attend the funeral of Engineer Frank Clark. The train was free to employes and no one else was allowed to go. The funeral was largely attended. It was held at the family residence, 1111 South Seventh street. The house and the yard were filled. It was thought that 300 stood outside the house when the services began. A heavy shower came up, and that drove those away who could not get inside.

The services were conducted by Rev. William R. Springer who was also chaplain of the Masonic lodge of which Mr. Clark was a member. The lodge was present in a body.

The body of Mr. Clark, accompanied by a number of friends, left Springfield on train 42 for Port Huron, Mich., where the burial will be. Among those in the party were Frank Paine, foreman of the roundhouse at Decatur, and a brother-in-law of Frank Clark. A committee of four engineers of the B. of L. E. of the Springfield division went along to assist the family and be present at the funeral.

In Decatur a wait of 45 minutes was made by the latenees of 42 from St. Louis. The floral tributes of the many friends were shown to those at the depot. Such a beautiful collection is rarely seen. There were half a dozen elaborate pieces. One was the "Gates Ajar," sent by the Springfield division of the Order of Railway Conductors. It was a magnificent piece, representing the gates ajar, with a dove above, wings outstretched and looking lifelike enough to fly.

The special train, drawn by Engineer Donaldson with the 139, came back to Decatur in quick time, only 44 minutes being spent on the road.

Good Feeling Prevails.

A feeling of animosity has been noticed between the country people and the town people for some time. The country folks have felt that they were being oppressed by city folks, and have naturally resented it. Some camping parties and nearly all hunters and fishers have been made aware of this feeling in an unpleasant way. For the hunters and fishers, it must be confessed, there is not much occasion for sympathy. They go into the country as if it belodged to them, and do damage to fences and crops they would not think of doing on their own property. This naturally moves the owners of the soil to retaliation on somebody, and the innocent camping parties have suffered None of this feeling has been encountered by the Coulter's mill camping party, where about 20 Decatur people are spending a week or two. Among others there are the families G. W. Scovill, M. F. Metz and Fred Norman. About 40 people from Decatur were there Sunday A number of the farmers around visited the camp, and nearly all left something in the way of peaches, young chickens, fine vegetables, or something of the kind The most cordial relations exist between the campers and the neighbors, and this is as it should be.

Police Courts.

Three young men were arrested Sunday morning about 4 o'clock by Officer Bailey for making a noise on the streets. They were going to the depot, and stopped and organized a concert in Central park. Each one paid Justice Provost $3 and costs

Justice Hammer dismissed Mrs. Mattie McWithey yesterday. She was brought before him on a charge of using profane language.

Four women were before Justice Hammer yesterday for disorderly conduct. They indulged in a jawing match on the street Saturday night. Their assessment of $3 and costs each was paid.

Ben Search and Charles Yest had lots of fun Sunday evening. They were on the rear end of a Citizens' line car, and would set up the brake while the car was under full headway with the power on. Motorman Marshall told them to stop two or three times, and then undertook to put them off the car. They retaliated by committing an assault and battery on him Justice Curtis fined each one $3 and costs.

To Owners of Dogs

Your attention is called to the ordinances in relation to the licensing of dogs, which is printed in another column. Read and be governed accordingly.

ALREADY,

GO!

It may hurt some of the other shoe dealers, but we can stand it and so can you.

THE COST HAS NOTHING TO DO WITH IT!

In order to make room for our fall stock we have concluded to make great reduction in all kinds of Boots and Shoes for the next three weeks, and when we say we are going to sell at greatly reduced prices we mean it, It is an undisputed fact that the Ferriss & Lapham Shoe Store sells more goods than any two of its would-be competitors. Why? Because it it has the goods and sells them for less money than some dealers can buy the same goods.

They have purchased an immense stock for the fall trade, the largest ever bought for any Decatur shoe store, and they must have room, let come what will.

It dont make any difference what the people want, Ferriss & Lapham have it. If you want a cheap shoe, they can accommodate you. If you want a medium grade, you can always find a large stock to select from, and if you want a stylish, dressy shoe, they have a larger and handsomer line than all other stores combined, and their prices are clear out of sight.

Remember, you must call early if you want a bargain for they will positively sell goods cheaper than they were ever offered before.

The Ferriss & Lapham Shoe Store,

148 EAST MAIN ST., DECATUR, ILL.

Our hotel folks are having good success

Jacob Molsom will soon be seen out in his new buggy.

Dr Tinsley, of Arthur, has several cases here.

We are glad to say Mrs Briggs is on the mend and we hope to see her up soon.

Everybody that was well enough took in the basket meeting at the C. C. Chapel Sunday.

Our town has been clad in morning for several days. There were two death in one week and two more persons very sick.

One family is living in a tent in our town. More new houses are needed and plenty of men are wanting farms.

Oakland Park.

Even bad weather dont affect the attendance at the park where the Ideals are giving excellent performances. Last night's play of "Tracked Down" was well received by the audience. Tonight the play will be repeated and with fair weather the pavilion no doubt will be packed to suffocation.

HEAVY DAMAGE BY WIND

A $3,000 Elevator and Some Other Property Destroyed.

Rumors of cyclones were flying around on all sides yesterday. Latham, in the edge of Logan county, seems to have suffered the only serious damage, however. There was no cyclone there, but a heavy wind, which came up just after noon.

Wood & Combs' elevator, which was being remodeled and almost built over, was blown down. Its destruction was complete, none of the building being left on the foundation The loss is fully $3 000.

The wrecked elevator was blown over on a P, D & E engine standing on the side-track by the elevator The engine was damaged considerably, and the engineer and fireman had a narrow escape with their lives They were on the engine when the elevator came over on it Fortunately none of the large timbers fell on the cab

Albert Huston was building a new two story building with a 40 foot front, to take the place of a building destroyed by the fire. It was almost completed The wind wrecked it and shook it so that considerable money will have to be spent to put it in as good shape as it was

All over Austin township damage by the wind is reported. Corn cribs, small buildings and fences were blown down in every direction The corn in the fields was laid flat over large areas As the stalks are heavy, it is likely that they will not raise The loss in this will be considerable. At C. H. Montgomery's, where they were threshing, a heavy wagon with a hay frame on it was turned upside down Fortunately there was no one near the wagon.

E N Hamilton's straw stack was struck by lightning and burned His barn came near burning too It was saved only by the hardest work on the part of Mr Hamil ton and his men

The wind was accompanied by a heavy drenching rain That will do some good as it was badly needed

South and southeast of Decatur there was a hard wind that did a great deal of damage in a small way Whole fields of corn were laid flat between Hervey City and Prairie Hall The wind did not seem to do any harm farther east than Williamsburg. At Macon and south of there the same wind prevailed, accompanied by much hail A limb of a tree was blown on the telephone wire, and cut off communication by that line

FILLING A LIGHTED STOVE

Mrs Ann Johnson is Fatally Burned in a Gasoline Explosion.

Mrs Ann Johnson, an old colored woman known all over the south part of town as "Granny" Johnson, lived alone at 622 South Main street Sunday morning she was getting her dinner on the stove that night be cooking while she was at church She had a small gasoline stove Without putting out the blaze she started to fill the small tank just as she had done hundreds of times before This time, however there was an explosion, and the burning fluid was thrown over the old lady With clothes in a blaze she rushed from the house into her yard James Moore saw her from his home and ran over His wife followed with a quilt With that the fire on the old lady was put out, but she was badly burned about the face, head, neck, shoulders, and body down to the waist She was taken to the home of Joe Powell Her own home was put in shape in a few minutes, however, by Mrs Moore and Mrs Graves, and she was taken there Almost no damage was done to the house The firemen were called, but there was nothing for them to do

Mrs Johnson lived in great pain till between 4 and 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon, when she died The funeral will be held at 3 this afternoon at the African Methodist church The burial will be at Greenwood

Mrs Johnson was the widow of Walter Johnson, who was in the employ of Morehouse, Wells & Co, years ago She was a native of Tennessee She leaves married daughters who reside at Nashville Tenn, and a son, Henry Johnson, at St Louis, Mo Her age was about 70 years She was the owner of the place where she has lived since the death of her husband

At Homer

About 5 000 people were at Homer Sunday to view the wreck and to watch the wrecking crew pick it up Some where near 200 people brought their dinners and a very large number brought a pocket lunch along. Foreman Johnson and his crew of the wreck train deserve considerable credit for their work in getting up the engine They raised it in two hours There were two accidents however, to two of the crew Harry Thompson and Charley Chenoweth were unfortunate enough to put their shoulders out of place No difficulty was experienced in pulling Harry Thompson's shoulder back in place, some of the bystanders assisting Charley Chenoweth had some difficulty. A doctor was called and Charley was placed under the influence of chloroform. It took an hour to put his shoulder back. Frank Johnson came near losing one of his arms while raising the engine A piece of the engine struck him on the right arm, cutting through his jacket and shirt, just grazing the skin.

The engine arrived last night with the wrecking train. It will go to the shops at Springfield tomorrow.

The force of the escaping steam on the bank against which the engine fell blew out hole about five feet deep and nine feet wide, and it was there that Engineer Clark received the injuries that killed him

Unlucky LaRaux

LaRaux, the balloonist, appears to be unlucky. He has looked at the moon over his left shoulder, broken a looking glass, been at a table where there were 13 people, and seen a crosseyed woman, all at the same time, judging from the scrapes he has. Sunday he attempted to swing from a grapevine into the river He made the swing all right, but he landed on a broken beer bottle and cut a gash in his foot that made it necessary for Dr. O R Allen to take four or five stitches in dressing the injury. LeRaux walks with difficulty now, and may not be able to make an ascension for a few days

Church Sociables

The Missionary Society of the First Methodist church will give a sociable this evening at the residence of Mrs. Bishop on South Main street. A musical and literary program will be given

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Presbyterian church, gave a lawn fete last night at the home of I. D Walker on West Macon street. It was held indoors on account of the rain. Messrs. Brown and Charles Montgomery each sang solos. Miss Whitehurst was called upon for solos and was encored twice. A large attendance, considering the weather, was there.

Saturday evening the houses of Tom and Ida Smith in Mt Zion township narrowly escaped destruction by fire Sparks from a P, D & E engine set fire to a pasture and burnt over 30 acres before the flames could be suppressed by the farmers who came to the rescue by the score

Officer Miller arrested Billy Brewer late yesterday evening for an assault on one Straussen, a shoemaker on Cerro Gordo street Brewer struck Straussen in the mouth with his fist, knocking out some of his front teeth The trial will be before Squire Hammer today at 2 o'clock

'Zip' Bruse, a dog that weighs only four pounds and is quite a noted dog with a great many acquaintances, had a serious accident Sunday He fell off a table and broke his foreleg Dr William Trowbridge dressed the injury by putting the broken leg in splints It is thought that 'Zip" will recover

Henry Schwab, of Blue Mound was arrested Saturday by Deputy Sheriff Midkiff on a warrant charging him with selling liquor to D. H Oliver, the sewing machine man arrested there last week for embezzlement Mr Schwab gave bond for his appearance Thursday before Squire Curtis About 30 witnesses have been summoned States Attorney Mills will prosecute

Miss Magee daughter of Overseer Magee of the poor farm and Miss Shoemaker, a young lady living near there were coming to Decatur Saturday, when their horse became frightened and upset the buggy. Both were thrown out and badly bruised, though no bones were broken. They might have been hurt worse if the horse had not been stopped at once They will be confined to the house for a day or two.

George Meyers & Co, the furniture men, were moving into their new building, the Loeb Time block yesterday About one fourth of their stock was moved. The moving will go on today. The front of the building has been taken out in making the alterations for Ottenheimer & Co. There was a great flying around and putting up of tarpaulins yesterday when the wind began to blow. A wagonman staid in front of the store all night

Lew Friborg's little daughter has had bad luck the last few days Friday she fell out of a hammock and broke her collar bone It was not discovered till yesterday, when she was brought to Dr Farmer He set the broken bone On the way home she was passing a barn on Crea street just as the wind storm came up. The wind blew the barn door around on the child, struck her in the face, and bruised it badly She is suffering now as badly from that as from the broken collar bone.

Marshal Mason and wife are entertaining C C Breckinridge and wife, residents of Sangamon county The two gentlemen are old army comrades During the state encampment they agreed to meet each other at Detroit Both were there, but they hunted each other unsuccessfully all week without meeting Marshal Mason arrived home Saturday night and Mr. Breckinridge and wife arrived yesterday. They will visit here. Mr Breckinridge has a memorial hall of his own. A few years ago he built a handsome residence on his farm One large room was set apart for relics of the war It is almost filled now with a valuable and curious collection. Among other things are a great many pictures of his comrades

The commissioners of Decatur township were getting ready to build a gravel road from the end of Eldorado street to Fairview park, thence north to Steven's creek, when the price of gravel was raised from 5 cents to 15 cents a load. Now the proposed improvement is off.

The annual house cleaning at Stapp's Chapel is now going on. The walls are being cleaned and new carpets and cushions will be put in. The alcove that was built on the east end of the church for the organ is finished and the new $3,500 pipe organ will be in place in two weeks.

Work on the addition to the Fenton block has been delayed by the non-arrival of the terra cotta trimmings. They are expected soon, however, and then the work will be pushed rapidly. Bradley Brothers expect to get into their new room about Sept. 1.

Officer Ed Leech had a chance yesterday to see how much his new rosewood club was good for. A friend took it to look at, just as every friend has done since the policemen began carrying the clubs This time, however, the friend dropped the club on the sidewalk. It struck on the end, fell over on the side and broke in two at the handle. There was a knot in the wood.

TRACK AND TRAIN.

No 42 was delayed at Harristown about 40 minutes last night on account of a hot box

A. J. Morning, the injured mail clerk, is still in a critical condition. No one is permitted to see him.

Fireman Henry Opel, who was injured in the Homer wreck, was able to attend the funeral of Engineer Frank Clark Sunday.

John Welsh, formerly a car cleaner, now throws switches in the east end. James Jordan, a night car cleaner, proving to be a swift man with the duster was assigned to Welsh's place by Foreman Needham

Henry Gillespie, night switchman in the Wabash yards, took a lay off yesterday after a continuous service of four years, without losing a night. A few nights ago Henry was hurt about the legs with a coupling pin and has suffered considerably. He will leave today for Springfield, where he will receive treatment at the Wabash hospital

William Stoner, who has been doing oiling extra in place of the regular oiler, pulled off to go to the wreck at Homer, got a fright yesterday that may turn his hair white He was lying on a pile of ties in the east end, waiting for No. 73 freight to pull in No 3 passenger arrived first, however, and pulled close by to where Stoner was lying. Stoner awoke from his dream kicking and squirming in such a manner that the engineer on No. 3 thought he had struck him, and stopped the train, only to find that Stoner had been lying there indulging in day dreams and that No. 3 had crawled on him unawares Those fellow employes who witnessed the occurrence laughed till they had to be docked for losing time.

WALL PAPER DELIRIUM.

EFFECT OF GROTESQUE DESIGNS ON THE WEAK AND SICKLY.

How the Figures on the Wall Photograph Themselves on the Mind of the Invalid and Repeat the Patterns in the Lonely Brain of the Helpless.

"I was nearly driven out of my mind this morning at the barber's," said a man, complainingly, a day or two ago. "You see, the ceiling is decorated in an odd way with white and gold plaster, put on in circles. The rings begin small and gradually enlarge to about the size of a cheese plate, and are repeated again and again. Lying back on the chair, my eyes had only the ceiling to look at, and of course I dared not move my head.

"Presently I caught sight of a fly, or a spot of black that I mistook for one, and I began to speculate whether it was a fly. I watched it to see whether it would move, so that I might be sure. One does the most idiotic things at times under enforced stillness, as when in a barber's chair The more I watched the more certain I was that the thing was a fly, but it wouldn't move Something else did. After a few minutes of steady watching the circles began to revolve faster and faster, but the black spot remained perfectly still

"In desperation I removed my glare to another set of circles, only to find that the one revolving set had started all the others Round and round they went in a perfectly bewildering fashion, until, in a sort of agony, I closed my eyes, but even then I could see them whirling around I never was so relieved in my life as when I got off that chair and out of the shop"

That man's experience was not an uncommon one, as any person will testify who has lain on a bed of sickness, unable to move or to think very clearly, and has watched the pattern of the paper on the wall

WALL PAPER AND IMAGINATION

Nothing could well be more horrible than the waking delirium produced upon the imagination of the sick by tracing the wall paper pattern It will assume all sorts of ghostly, ghastly and grim designs An elaborate pattern in cream white and gold will easily take on the appearance of an Indian's head in full war paint and feathers, with grinning teeth and gleaming eyes

When this is seen over and over again on all sides of the room in every corner, at every angle, when the terrible eyes at last seem to follow the sick sufferer's glance whichever way he looks, then the patient's feelings may better be imagined than described.

A short time ago there was a craze for wall paper decorated with feathers in gilt Of course the pattern, though elaborate and ever changing to the appearance at first, was in reality repeated over and over again. The same sets of peacock, chicken and pheasant feathers recurred in slanting rows upon each strip of paper It took the imagination of a sick man, however, to conjure up a delirium from the pretty design. To him the feathers performed a sort of diabolic quadrille, they flew hither and thither They jumped and pranced The peacocks bowed to the pheasants, and the chickens curled around and over and under the rest like the wildest flights of the wildest troupe of Majilons or Girards in existence.

Then the feathers began to have eyes that looked at the sick man, that leered at him, that laughed at him They began a sort of hellish witches' frolic over and around his bed, close to his pillow, until at last in an agony of conscious delirium (for he was perfectly cognizant of the illusion), he shrieked out aloud for some one to talk to him to say something to divert the fearful current of thought that very soon would have made a raving maniac of him

ONE SICK GIRL'S EXPERIENCE

What is known as the Greek key pattern is prolific of this delirious illusion It has many variations but it is always more or less alike. The squares, after being stared at steadily for a short while, begin to revolve like wheels only they are square wheels, and they take on a peculiar lessening and enlarging effect which is horribly irritating at first and then agonizingly bewildering

Some parents think they are giving a great deal of pleasure to their children when they paper the nursery with a design repeating again and again the stories of "Little Bo-peep," "Mother Hubbard," "The House That Jack Built" and the like It is not always a kindness A tiny girl patient of five years a little while ago had her recovery from a low fever retarded for some weeks by one of these wretched wall papers She knew all the stories by heart, but from her position in the little cot in which she lay some of them were unfinished on the wall Notably one of Jack and Gill going up the hill to fetch a pail of water

She could see all of the series except the tumble. There she lay, day after day, looking at the pictures and wondering "I wonder if they will," she kept on saying, and not one of her nurses was clever enough to find out what was troubling the poor little brain. At last she almost fretted herself into a second attack of the fever, when one day the doctor entered the room and heard her plaintive, wondering cry

"Wonder if they will what, little one?" he asked

"Fall down the hill," she said "I can't see!"

"Who? Jack and Gill? Why, of course they will Look, I'll raise you up so you can see." And suiting the action to the word he raised the weary little body and she saw the picture of the sprawling youngsters. From that day she began to recover

A TERRIBLE MALADY

Another painful amusement for the sick is making fancy designs out of the patterns on the wall paper Take, for example, one of those common, cheap papers with a sprig of flowers repeated in diagonal lines The patient begins by forming a square of four flowers. Then a larger one with sixteen, then he cuts it up into four small ones, then makes an oblong, then a diamond, then a hectagon, a triangle, half a dozen triangles, squares and diamonds. He forms a chess board

He breaks it up in pieces He follows it about all round the room He starts in to count the sprigs or bunches of flowers He tries to change the design by converting the squares into circles and so on. He at last can trace the design behind the pieces of furniture where he cannot see it He becomes hopelessly and imbecilely insane

He hides his face in the bedclothes only to find himself doing the same thing in the dark, and when he again uncovers his eyes they unconsciously but irresistably go back to their eternal miserable work until delirium seizes him in its clutches and he is a raving lunatic.—New York Recorder
